

Saira A. Khaderi, MD

Saira A. Khaderi, MD, is Assistant Professor of Surgery in the Division of Abdominal Transplantation of the Michael E. DeBakey Department of Surgery at Baylor College of Medicine and is board-certified in Internal Medicine. Dr. Khaderi earned a medical degree from The University of Texas Medical Branch in Galveston, Texas and a Master of Public Health from The University of Texas School of Public Health in Houston. Her extensive training includes a residency in Internal Medicine at The Cleveland Clinic Foundation in Cleveland, Ohio. After completing her residency, she returned to Houston and continued working in transplant medicine at Methodist Hospital, where she was an active member of the liver and kidney transplant programs. In the summer of 2013, she completed a transplant hepatology fellowship at Baylor College of Medicine. Dr. Khaderi joined the Division of Abdominal Transplantation in 2013. Her clinical interests include transplant, hepatitis C, cirrhosis and end-stage liver disease.